Dear Bill:

In winding up my activities in the Agency, I am trying to put things in some kind of order so that [redacted] and [redacted] can pick up the pieces without too much difficulty.

One thing that has proved particularly valuable to me in trying to assist [redacted] has been your monthly financial statement. The last one I have on file covers the period through 31 October 1954. I would appreciate it very much if, in the next few days, you could send the reports for the remainder of the year.

Even though we may not have business reasons to see each other, I hope you will let me know when you come to town so that we can break bread together occasionally.

Cordially,
